

I am against any retransmission fees charged to cable/satellite television consumers. It's ridiculous to charge us any fees when many of the companies are able to operate because of the revenue they get from advertisers. And, the only reason why they have advertisers is because of consumers like me who watch television. Shame on the tv cable channels for being so greedy. They're already taking a chunk of my money each month as it is.