MMTC CONGRATULATES THE FCC ON ITS RELEASE OF THE NATIONAL BROADBAND PLAN

Today the Federal Communications Commission released “Connecting America: The National Broadband Plan.” The Minority Media and Telecommunications Council (MMTC), which participated extensively in a dozen proceedings and hearings leading up to the plan, commends the FCC on this extraordinary accomplishment.

David Honig, MMTC President and Executive Director, stated that the FCC “hit all of the top priorities: closing the racial and economic digital divide, extending broadband service to the unserved and underserved, achieving universal adoption and literate use, and securing the full participation of minority business enterprises (MBEs) in the new digital economy. For addressing these issues, the FCC deserves our warm congratulations on a job well done.
