Re: MB Docket No. 10-56

Dear Chairman Genachowski,

My name is Richard Farias and I am President and CEO of the Tejano Center for Community Concerns (TCCC) in Houston, Texas. I am writing you to express my support for the Comcast and NBC Universal proposal and to let you know about the impact Comcast is making in the Houston area as a philanthropic partner.

The Tejano Center for Community Concerns is a community based, non-profit organization that aims to improve life opportunities for low-income children and families by providing educational, social, and health services. We work with many supporters to achieve our mission, but Comcast stands out among them.

It is heartening to see a corporate partner take notice of the key issues facing our community and establish long term relationships with the right programs to make a real difference for our people and communities. For the last four years, Comcast has supported not just the Tejano Center for Community Concerns with financial and volunteer support, but many other organizations serving those in need in our community. For example, Legacy Community Health Services, Child Advocates and the Houston READ Commission are among these groups.

TCCC is proud to have Comcast as our partner in addressing family literacy issues and youth empowerment. Comcast has generously provided grants for our literacy program "Read and You Will Be"; been a sponsor of our annual fundraiser gala and selected Tejano Center as a Comcast Cares Day project site in 2008 where Comcast employees volunteered their time and talents to refurbish the exterior of our building and grounds and provided over $25,000 in financial support.

We are also excited by what Comcast is offering to the East End Tejano community through broadband services. These are the tools our young people and adults need to be successful and Comcast is making them available to low-income populations throughout Houston. A good example in this community is the Comcast Digital Connectors program offered at George Sanchez Charter School.

Improving my community's quality of life is of the utmost importance to me and my organization. Comcast is committed to doing just that and is making an important impact here. I therefore urge you to support Comcast's proposal to join with NBC Universal. If I may be of any further assistance, please do not hesitate to call me directly at 713 640-3702, or on my cell #832 473-2005.

Respectfully,

Richard R. Farias,
President & CEO
