

The arguments made by advocates of so-called net neutrality regulations have been proven false by nearly a decade of experience since their concerns were first raised. The Internet is a remarkable free market success story, and the vast majority of Internet users are not clamoring for regulation. Self-styled consumer groups asking for regulation actually represent an extreme left-wing ideology that is hostile to free-market capitalism and puts its trust in government. That is not the position of the "grassroots" or most American Internet users. I urge you to reject new regulations and allow the free-market Internet to continue flourishing.

This is another attempt for the Obama administration to takeover the media, push a socialistic agenda, and limit capitalism. Please uphold true free speech in America as our founders intended. "Free Press" NOT! If Andy Stern, Robert McChesney, and Van Jones don't want to uphold our Constitution and live by the laws of our country they need to move!

Tv and the media are already almost totally pro-Obama's socialist agenda and frankly I'm an American who is sick and tired of the attacks and demonization of conservatives who don't share their views.

It's a shame that we as Americans cannot trust our government to do what's best for our country anymore and have to vigilently look for information to find out what sneaky activities they are up to next.

Thanks for listening and I hope the FCC listens to real Americans, not correspondence sent in from moveon.org and seiu.org.
