

I heard that the FCC is having hearings about net neutrality and the public comments are welcome. I don't pretend that my voice will be heard among the many comments that will be received. I hope it is though.

I see no reason to enact any regulation regarding speech or debate on the internet. If anything speech and debate should be encouraged on the internet and any other medium. The ability to speak your opinion without fear of retaliation by any group, government or citizen-based. The founders of our country recognized the necessity, nee, the God-given right to liberty. James Madison wrote in the First Amendment to the Constitution that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances."

It is of utmost importance that any and every United State Citizen speak their mind. Even in the face of complete disagreement by others.

I implore the FCC to strongly consider the First Amendment when they consider the Net Neutrality issue before them.
