

It saddens me that there are groups like Free Press that believe that I, as an adult, am not capable of thinking and reasoning for myself. There is information I observe in the media every day that I do not agree with but I use that information to weigh all sides and decide for myself what is right or wrong. These new regulations would prevent me from having access to that information and would give the government more power over my life. Please preserve free speech in this country. I urge you to reject new regulations and allow the free-market Internet to continue flourishing.
