

Once again, in a repeating scenario, we see the current government reducing our freedoms, making the power and size of government larger. This should bother you. I know it bothers the people I talk with.

The arguments made by advocates of so-called net neutrality regulations have been proven false by nearly a decade of experience since their concerns were first raised. The Internet is a remarkable free market success story, and the vast majority of Internet users are not clamoring for regulation.

Self-styled consumer groups asking for regulation actually represent an extreme left-wing ideology that is hostile to free-market capitalism and puts its trust in government. That is not the position of the "grassroots" or most American Internet users. I urge you to reject new regulations and allow the free-market Internet to continue flourishing.

Start thinking for yourself, your kids and their kids and the rest of us. We desire the free country America always offered. Free yourself from political alliances. They have become destructive.