

Dear Chairman Genachowski, I am admittedly ambivalent on the issue of reclassification of broadband under Title II. However, I can state unequivocally that net neutrality must be protected and I urge you to protect this state and to promote universal internet access for all. This is the future, the net is still in its infancy and yet every day we discover new uses and new means for communication all because it exists as a neutral entity. I personally, depend greatly on the net for all of my news, entertainment, and for staying in contact with family and friends in other states and countries. All of this could be destroyed were my ISP to decide they want to control what I have access to or decide to provide only tiered service. Many of the things I rely on day to day could suddenly be out of my reach. Please, fight the good fight; keep the net neutral by any means necessary! Thank you.
