

Strongly agree with the comments by Robert Bittner that regulation falls too heavily on smaller businesses. As a general principle, the FCC must ensure that it does not erect barriers to entry, reducing media diversity and harming the ability of rural and small businesses to compete.

In the worst of possible cases, regulation such as this could sustain otherwise unnatural monopolies.