Re: MB Docket No. 10-56

Dear Chairman Genachowski,

I am writing you to express my support for Comcast's proposed partnership with NBC Universal. As the Executive Director of the Albuquerque Public Schools Foundation, I have seen first-hand Comcast's commitment to the education of our children and to the Albuquerque community as a whole.

Our organization is committed to raising private funds for the purpose of enhancing the educational opportunities at the Albuquerque Public Schools, the state's largest school district with 90,000 children. Comcast has been a dedicated partner to the cause of providing our children with the best public education possible.

Comcast recently committed to partner with the Foundation's Horizon Campaign by donating a significant amount of cable advertising time to promote our initiatives. The contribution is by far the largest the campaign has received to date and we will begin making plans to cut informational spots later this spring to air on Comcast's cable networks.

It's important to note that Comcast came to the Foundation with the idea, not the other way around.

In addition, Comcast has partnered with us during its Comcast Cares Days, bringing volunteers and resources to bear to help at the Ernie Pyle Middle School and Kit Carson Elementary School. Volunteerism is an important boon to any community, but the spirit with which Comcast approaches this initiative is truly remarkable.

When we talk to the people at Comcast, it's plain that they want to be a team player in helping the students in Albuquerque. This isn't something they have to do. It's something they want to do. I know that because when I talk to employees from the company, invariably their first question is: "How can we help?"

It's a great example of how business and the education community can work together to ensure a brighter future.

As you consider its proposed acquisition of NBC-Universal, I ask you to keep in mind all that Comcast does to promote the education of our children in the Albuquerque community.

Sincerely,
