

Dear FCC,

This letter is to add my name to the list of complaints about the practice of bulk billing. This practice violates consumer freedom in that one is forced to pay for cable if one does not want it or face eviction (which is forced coercion.) Furthermore aside from not having a choice in choosing the cable company (without penalty,) you are forced to pay for the cable plan of the cable company's (Comcast) choosing. This obviously is a loophole to get around an established law and it is unjust for this practice to persist.

Sincerely,

William Allen
