

I rely on the Internet as a public platform for free speech, equal opportunity, economic growth and innovation. Without vital Net Neutrality protections, companies like Verizon and Comcast, which have a commercial incentive to limit the free-flowing Web, can decide whether I will have a voice online. These companies should not have the power to determine my fate on the Internet. All companies want to make money - as much as possible. Companies should not have the right or the power to lock up the freedom of the Internet. Every poor person who has access to the Internet should not have to pay to read things on the Internet so that a big company can make money!

The FCC must have the power to protect consumer access to the most important communications medium of our time. The FCC must stand with me and keep the Internet in the hands of the people who use it every day. Please reclassify broadband as a "telecommunications service" and keep the Internet open and free of corporate gatekeepers. Please keep the Internet free and open so that every person who desires to can read and access information without having to pay "use fees" or whatever!
