

As a small business which relies 100% on the open internet, the idea that telecoms could regulate my web site's ability to reach customers is INFURIATING!!!!!! If they are given control, it will be no time at all before I will have to pay them so my currently top rated site will still be as accessible as my HUGE corporate competition. If net neutrality is killed, my support for Obama will die with it. Period!!!!!!!!!! I worked hard to help him get elected and his absolute pledge to protect net neutrality had a lot to do with that. So is he another lying bastard or not?

Only in our corrupt system could the internet be defined as a non communication medium - it's laughable. Do your frigging job and end this threat to our freedom from the corporate jerk wads who seem to own all you people. I am so sick and tired of constantly having to take action to keep net neutrality - make it permanent or else your jobs will be as fleeting as the open internet.
