

I rely on the Internet as a public platform for free speech, equal opportunity, economic growth and innovation. Without vital Net Neutrality protections, companies like Verizon and Comcast, which have a commercial incentive to limit the free-flowing Web, can decide whether I will have a voice online. These companies should not have the power to determine my fate on the Internet. The Open Internet empowers creativity, innovation, commerce, free flow of communication and information. Net Neutrality is about preventing corporate censorship of the Internet. Critics may say it would enable government censorship -- both are wrong by the way but Net Neutrality does not allow corporations to mess with the Internet nor does it give government the right to do so.

The FCC must have the power to protect consumer access to the most important communications medium of our time. The FCC must stand with me and keep the Internet in the hands of the people who use it every day. Please reclassify broadband as a Title II "telecommunications service" and keep the Internet open and free of corporate gatekeepers.
