

I rely on the Internet as a public platform for free speech, equal opportunity, economic growth and innovation. Without vital Net Neutrality protections, companies like Verizon and Comcast, which have a commercial incentive to limit the free-flowing Web, can decide whether I will have a voice online. These companies should not have the power to determine my fate on the Internet.

The FCC must have the power to protect consumer access to the most important communications medium of our time. The FCC must stand with me and keep the Internet in the hands of the people who use it every day. Please reclassify broadband as a "telecommunications service" and keep the Internet open and free of corporate gatekeepers.

Don't let the lies of companies like Comcast and AT&T sway you. Moving traffic off to a slower pipe is not unclogging the network, it's taking non revenue traffic off the net and only allowing revenue producing traffic. What happens when their special premium pipes block the electronic data needed to save someone's life? Do we have to wait for a catastrophe before you tell the huge ISP's that enough is enough?
