

Our founding fathers recognized the importance of a well-informed public to the success of our Democracy. In this day and age, the internet serves as a crucial conduit leading to well informed citizens. Protection of our Democracy demands Net Neutrality, I hope you'll agree.

I rely on the Internet as a public platform for free speech, equal opportunity, economic growth and innovation. Without vital Net Neutrality protections, companies like Verizon and Comcast, which have a commercial incentive to limit the free-flowing Web, can decide whether I will have a voice online. These companies should not have the power to determine my fate on the Internet.

One of the important charges to the FCC is to keep our Democracy strong. To this end, Net Neutrality is important now, and likely to be crucial in the future.

The FCC must have the power to protect consumer access to the most important communications medium of our time. The FCC must stand with me and keep the Internet in the hands of the people who use it every day. Please reclassify broadband as a "telecommunications service" and keep the Internet open and free of corporate gatekeepers.
