

Net neutrality is a vital tool in protecting free speech on the internet. Many people use the internet and rely on it to find reliable information. Allowing companies to redirect people to the corporation's preferred information is problematic and doing so without open disclosure is unethical.

I also agree with the Free Press and The Free Press Action Fund's language, "I rely on the Internet as a public platform for free speech, equal opportunity, economic growth and innovation. Without vital Net Neutrality protections, companies like Verizon and Comcast, which have a commercial incentive to limit the free-flowing Web, can decide whether I will have a voice online. These companies should not have the power to determine my fate on the Internet."
