

The internet should be freely open and accessible to everyone, without any potential for corporate limits or censorship. Most internet data is transmitted via public airwaves, and these airwaves are a public resource. The FCC should stand up for what's right and in the public interest, not what greedy corporations want. Most Americans voted for change and won, and the FCC should respect that. Please represent the people, not those fictional legal entities (corporations) that exist to simply make money while evading personal liability.

Thank you very much for considering my comments.

The FCC must have the power to protect consumer access to the most important communications medium of our time. The FCC must stand with me and keep the Internet in the hands of the people who use it every day. Please reclassify broadband as a "telecommunications service" and keep the Internet open and free of corporate gatekeepers.
