

In a world that I feel increasingly powerless in, in which corporate entities and bought out politicians have nearly unlimited control, I feel the internet is the only venue left that allows me to attempt to find any truths left. I can accept the fact that I must pay to have access to the internet, but cannot accept the idea that those that I pay can have the ability to limit what I access. The concept of the "public air waves" has been almost completely destroyed by the ability of a few to control a majority of those air waves. Please don't let the internet go the way of radio and TV...keep it open.

The FCC must have the power to protect consumer access to the most important communications medium of our time. The FCC must stand with me and keep the Internet in the hands of the people who use it every day. Please reclassify broadband as a "telecommunications service" and keep the Internet open and free of corporate gatekeepers.
