

I noticed in your report that Loudoun County VA was not listed as an underserved county. We live in Hillsboro, VA, 50 miles outside of Washington, DC, and we have NO broadband options to us except Full T1 service which rings in at $435 per month. Hillsboro's median income I am sure is significantly higher than your reports median income, and higher than the national average, yet we continue to have no broadband service, nor will any of the broadband providers address the issue with our town, even though both cable and fiber terminate within a few miles of our town. We welcome anyone from the FCC staff to drive out to Western Loudoun to see first hand themselves.
