

I rely on the Internet to obtain information that is never covered by the mainstream media. To me, if net neutrality is not protected it's another step in losing our democracy. It's not like AT&T, Verizon, Google, etc. are struggling companies that need a government bailout. President Obama campaigned on protecting net neutrality. He should honor his commitment.

The FCC can't cut private deals that would hand control over the Internet to a few massive phone and cable companies. Any compromise that allows Internet providers to build toll lanes online is not real Net Neutrality.

The agency must stand with the public and protect consumer access to the most important communications medium of our time. The FCC must regain its resolve to protect Net Neutrality on wired and wireless networks. Please reclassify broadband as a "telecommunications service" and keep the Internet open and free of corporate gatekeepers.
