

Instant, unfettered access to information from multiple sources.

Keyword - unfettered.

If an information provider that doesn't own a delivery service wants to charge a fee for content, and I agree that the fee is good value, I'll pay for the content.

If a pipeline owner wants to charge a fee to connect me to their pipe, so I can open the information spigot, and I agree that the fee is a good value, I'll pay for the pipe connection.

Consolidation of industries that furnish content and pipelines will lead to fettered access.

The FCC can't cut private deals that would hand control over the Internet to a few massive phone and cable companies. Any compromise that allows Internet providers to build toll lanes online is not real Net Neutrality.

The agency must stand with the public and protect consumer access to the most important communications medium of our time. The FCC must regain its resolve to protect Net Neutrality on wired and wireless networks. Please reclassify broadband as a "telecommunications service" and keep the Internet open and free of corporate gatekeepers.
