

I believe the Internet should remain a public platform for free speech, equal opportunity, economic growth and innovation. Without vital Net Neutrality protections, companies like Verizon and Comcast can decide who has access to what information and services. These companies should not have such power.

Please enforce both the letter and the intention of Net Neutrality to make certain that Internet access and content decisions are not made by corporations. Please keep access to the Internet equal for both providers and consumers.

The FCC can't cut private deals that would hand control over the Internet to a few massive phone and cable companies. Any compromise that allows Internet providers to build toll lanes online is not real Net Neutrality.

The agency must stand with the public and protect consumer access to the most important communications medium of our time. The FCC must regain its resolve to protect Net Neutrality on all networks, whether wired or wireless. Please reclassify broadband as a "telecommunications service" and keep the Internet open and free of corporate gatekeepers.
