

In Dec 2009, I requested from Experian a "Free Credit Report".

This was made online. Since December Experian has ben debiting my checking account, using the debit card I gave for the "free report". Every month they debit $19.99, I did not agree to have a membership, or any other kind of service from them. I have send serveral messages, I have called on the phone and I am still paying for a service I have not requested.

As and senior citizen, who lives just with my SS, I would like to know if this action is fraudulent or is a scam directed to people like me, thanks in advance
