

I would like more information regarding my cable company offering me internet access. How does internet access through the cable company differ from local providers, such as "NetZero"?

Also, I would like to know more about the difference between CDMA phones as opposed to RADIO satellite phones. I noticed that with a cell-phone I owned, CDMA was unavailable in some locations.