

I strongly urge the FCC to say no to the Google-Verizon proposal and protect net neutrality. No company should dictate, in any manner, shape or form, what websites are available to the public or what order websites appear online.