

The internet is not like telephones. Neither should be regulated by the government. It will only screw things up. No regulation is good regulation!