

Why would the FCC try to regulate a pay service that no one really needs. There are many other ways to get music and none of them have price caps. Will pandora be hit with a price cap? Will iTunes be hit with a price cap? SiriusXM obviously has competition and is not even a profitable company yet. I believe this is government overreach and I think SiriusXM should be allowed to raise prices if they are to be able to pay off debt and turn a profit.
