

I recently heard that a new show called Christian Bitches will be aired on ABC. The person who told me this said the show is being advertised on the radio. How can parents or in my case grandparents feel secure about watching tv or listening to the radio when offensive programs like this are advertised in a regular day. We need a base for complaints like this and possibly to keep the show from airing. I know I can change the channel, but it's too late when it's been advertised before you realize what it's saying.
