

I strongly support granting of a waiver and subsequent rule-making to allow hams to use MotoTRBO technology. This single time-slot TDMA technology is state of the art, and therefore applicable to experimentation, promotion of the hobby (and thus promotion of interest in science and technology), and to emergency services. This technology is very important to emergency services because of its efficiency and adaptability. The technology has already been accepted by many amateurs and expanded internationally. The good of the American people is served by use of this TDMA technology.
