

Allowing this takeover would be a roundly terrible thing to do for customers, innovation, and the industry at large. It would essentially create a carrier duopoly in the US between descendants of Ma Bell, which was split up for a reason. I must stress most emphatically that for the sake of consumers everywhere, it is imperative that this takeover not pass.