

I believe that allowing AT&T to buy out T-Mobile is a bad idea.

Think about it, there's not that many big competitors in the Phone market as of now anyways.

There's AT&T, there's Verizon, there's Sprint, and at the moment there is T-Mobile. If you allow AT&T to merge with T-Mobile, you're allowing there to only be 3 big phone carriers.

Which is bad for consumers. VERY bad. It'd allow AT&T to charge higher prices, and phone contract prices are already high enough at this point anyways.

Please, I ask of you, do the right thing and do not let this deal go through.
