

I think this is a really bad idea. It will give AT&T a practical Monopoly over the GSM network. I know there are other "little" guys but T-Mobile was it their only real competition which means super inflated prices on GSM networks or going back to super control over CDMA networks which I really don't want.