

With only 4 major-nationwide cell phone companies left in the United States and with each of them continually putting more and more restrictions on us, their customers, I highly worry that taking yet another carrier out of that mix will only give the carriers left more power, more leverage, and more motivation to restrict us even more, to charge us ridiculous prices and fees, and to overall really hurt this country's mobile communications infrastructure. Please, don't allow yet another merger of this kind. Thanks for your time.
