I'm a citizen opposed to the AT&T purchase of T-Mobile USA. It seems as though there is already little competition in the wireless phone market. The few large players who provide this service all appear to have similar pricing plans and packages. Rather than compete with each other, they follow each others lead as if they meet in private to discuss service levels and pricing.

Moreover, AT&T's network is overcrowded and thus slow and unreliable. If they throw many of their customers on T-Mobile's network, I'm afraid the same will happen to T-Mobile's network.

Also, my wife works for a vender at the main campus in Bellevue, WA. With the merger I fear that she along with many others will lose their jobs. This will be very bad for us and the local economy.

Please stop this harmful merger that will reduce competition even further in the U.S. wireless phone market.
