

I do not believe that the acquisition of T-Mobile by AT&T would serve the interest of US citizens or my own personal interests. I have been considering switching to T-Mobile from AT&T in order to reduce my costs and gain features that I cannot get with AT&T. I would not have this choice if AT&T and T-Mobile were one!

Furthermore, I think that reducing competition will result in less innovation and higher prices for consumers. We already have fewer choices than in Japan and Europe because of the oligarchy of cellular companies. This also reduces the global competitiveness of the US relative other countries. More competition within the US means we are also more competitive in the global economy.

So I urge you to oppose the merger of AT&T and T-Mobile.
