

I believe that it is critical that the FCC denies LightSquared permission to operate within or near the bandwidth currently used by GPS.