

I urge you to prevent use of radio frequency bands adjacent to those used by GPS receivers. As someone who regularly travels by air, I have grave concerns that interference from these adjacent bands may significantly impact GPS steering of aircraft and might, in tragic fashion, make air travel the "formerly safest way to travel."