

The telephone carrier should not allow a third party to attach fees to your telephone bill. I have had this happen and was told there is nothing they can do about it. They will not remove the charges either. You have to call around to find the third party to have the charges removed. The carrier and the third party seem not to be able to tell you why these charges have been attached to your bill. The consumer is basically being held hostage.