

The FCC should set aside the frequencies adjacent to the GPS satellites as unusable transmitters and move LightSquared's license to a different part of the spectrum.

If that is unfeasible then LightSquared should be required to pay for the filtering required for all of the Aviation GPS receivers along with the millions of auto, truck and handheld GPS receivers and mandated GPS receivers in mobile telephones.