

Of course I'm for eliminating cramming and enabling consumers to detect and stop it, but I'm also weary of all the things and scams we have to watch out for. It seems like we're required to be an expert in every area of our life to avoid being taken advantage of, an especially tall order for seniors.

Can't steps be taken to just stop this illegal activity and prosecute the criminals?! There might even be some money in it for the govt too, eh?
