

It is simply ridiculous to place the onus on everyone who currently has a GPS to have to buy a new one so that the LightSquared folks can make a fortune with their new untried technology.