

My self and my family use GPS Tech extensively for traveling and for numerous out door activities such as camping hiking and Geocaching. Also I use it for tracking devices as well and for personal locator devices. Also as a 17 year veteran of the Military I know it would have an adverse effect on most if not all of our GPS guided weapons which without we would be stopped cold in our tracks on several fronts. Select availability was turned off for a reason and in my humble opinion it wasnt so another company could do something to the same effect just to turn a buck.
