

My complaint is regarding abnormally loud television commercials for Xfinity Cable (Comcast). There have been several occasions that TV adds for Xfinity are much louder than any others. The CALM law signed on December 15, 2010 may not be enforced currently but should be recognized by Infinity and the fact that their loud commercials are unwanted. By continuing to run these loud commercials, while they may still be legal, are certainly immoral in my opinion. If there is anything that can be done now to stop these loud commercials now please do so. Thank you. Ray Schaper
