

The FCC should be the agency responsible for internet harassment and libelous postings which are widespread now on the internet due to the lack of any plan of action by any other agency. It is a disgrace that the US Govt including the FCC, are sitting by and doing nothing about the numerous negative reporting extortion schemes rampant on the internet. How did the Federal Communications Commission just sit by and watch this happen?