Section 214 Application

Applicants: Verizon Delaware LLC, Verizon Maryland Inc., Verizon New England Inc., Verizon New Jersey Inc., Verizon New York Inc., Verizon Pennsylvania Inc., Verizon Virginia Inc., and Verizon Washington, D.C. Inc.

On September 29, 2011, Verizon Delaware LLC, located at 901 Tatnall Street, Wilmington, Delaware 19801; Verizon Maryland Inc., located at 1 East Pratt Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21202; Verizon New England Inc., located at 125 High Street - Oliver Tower, 7th Floor, Boston, Massachusetts 02110; Verizon New Jersey Inc., located at 540 Broad Street, Newark, New Jersey 07102; Verizon New York Inc., located at 140 West Street, New York, New York 10007; Verizon Pennsylvania Inc., located at 1717 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19103; Verizon Virginia Inc., located at 703 East Grace Street, Richmond, Virginia 23219; and Verizon Washington, D.C. Inc., located at 1300 I Street, N.W., Suite 400 West, Washington, D.C. 20005 (collectively Verizon or Applicants), filed an application with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC or Commission) requesting authority, under section 214 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, 47 U.S.C. § 214, and section 63.71 of the Commission's rules, 47 C.F.R. § 63.71, to discontinue the provision of a certain domestic telecommunications service in Connecticut, Delaware, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Virginia, and Washington, D.C. (collectively Service Areas).

Verizon indicates that it currently offers Customer Service Management (CSM) as an optional feature of Frame Relay Service in the Service Areas.¹ Verizon describes CSM as a web-based reporting tool, which permits enterprise, government, and medium business customers to view switch-based utilization statistics and status information relating to their Frame Relay network circuits. Verizon states, however, that it plans to discontinue CSM in the Service Areas on or after December 30, 2011. Verizon maintains that the public convenience and necessity will not be impaired by the proposed discontinuance because there are currently no customers subscribed to the service and there are comparable alternative services available. For example, Verizon indicates that customers may review the same utilization statistics using available Customer Premises Equipment devices including products provided by Digilog software (Digilog Network Access and Monitoring System (NAMS)), the Network Supervisory System II test access hardware, and the HP J2300 protocol analyzer, which allow central site technicians to test and perform remote protocol analysis throughout the Frame Relay network. Verizon adds that other alternatives include Cisco's Traffic Monitor, which is a real-time graphical application that retrieves and displays traffic conditions for products including Frame Relay. Verizon states that it is considered dominant with respect to the service to be discontinued.

In accordance with section 63.71(c) of the Commission's rules, Verizon's application will be deemed to be granted automatically on the 60th day after the release date of this public notice, unless the Commission notifies Verizon that the grant will not be automatically effective. In its application, Verizon indicates that it anticipates discontinuing service on or after December 30, 2011, subject to regulatory approval. Accordingly, pursuant to section 63.71(c) and the terms of Verizon's application, absent further Commission action, Verizon may discontinue CSM in the Service Areas on or after December 30, 2011. The Commission normally will authorize proposed discontinuances of service unless it is shown that customers or other end users would be unable to receive service or a reasonable substitute from another carrier, or that the public convenience and necessity would be otherwise adversely affected.

This proceeding is considered a "permit but disclose" proceeding for purposes of the Commission's ex parte rules, 47 C.F.R. §§ 1.1200-1.1216. Comments objecting to this application must be filed with the Commission on or before November 30, 2011. Such comments should refer to WC Docket No. 11-180 and Comp. Pol. File No. 1015.
