

I encourage the FCC to mandate VID-STS as a TRS service. My son with severe disabilities could benefit from this as he does not use ASL but has made up his own signs and uses non-verbal sounds to communicate. These are understandable by the people who know him, but an image and sound are needed to be transmitted. People with speech disabilities should benefit from the fruits of the internet, just like people with other disabilities.