

I believe blackouts are unnecessary. Fan bases are much larger than they were 30-40 years ago, even in smaller markets. People who regularly attend in person and those who regularly watch on TV are increasingly mutually exclusive groups. Removing the blackouts should have no financial impact on local sports franchises.