

Lightsquared will cause too many issues with GPS reliability. I do not use their services nor will I have any plans to. I do not approve of a carrier that I will not use causing problems for me and others using GPS. Not to mention the various public services and large variety of other devices that rely on stable GPS. This is not worth letting them inot the game just to make a profit.