

I think FCC should approve LightSquared GPS because:

1. Will make a huge improvement over us network.
2. Will help Sprint to be more competitive network.
3. Will help a lot of small network companies to growth.
4. Would be nice to have new network technology in US that not other country has.